Summary

A highly motivated, analytical, and result-oriented quick learner with over 5 years of professional expertise in working in a fast-paced technological environment with a solid history of achievement in providing Responsive, Fluid, and Optimized User Interface solutions, currently seeking challenging opportunities to leverage my engineering skills in Frontend.

Experience

Systems Engineer

Infosys

Jul 2018 - Aug 2021 (3 years 2 months)

- Designed and developed a library of reusable React components to streamline user interface development.
- Improved performance of React components by using React developer tools and the latest React Hooks.
- Demonstrated expertise in diagnosing and rectifying bugs within React applications, streamlining code for improved functionality and user experience.
- Employed rigorous debugging techniques, such as browser dev tools and code analysis, to pinpoint and address issues promptly, resulting in enhanced software stability and reliability.

Senior Engineer

Qburst

Oct 2021 - Present (2 years 5 months)

- Proficiently translated intricate designs and wireframes into high-quality, pixel-perfect code while ensuring a seamless, responsive user experience.
- Leveraged a combination of HTML, SASS/styled components, and React to create user interfaces that adapt flawlessly to various screen sizes and devices, guaranteeing an optimal user experience.
- Utilized React Testing Library to perform comprehensive unit tests on React components, verifying their functionality and behavior against project specifications.
- Set up the mock server to expedite the development process during the API development phase.
- Mentored peers for a smooth transition to the React and TypeScript ecosystem.
- Provided mentorship and training to junior team members on best practices for unit testing using React Testing Library and Enzyme.
- Engineered the components and folder structure to be consistent with the industry's best practices.
- Created and maintained Jenkins pipeline scripts to automate continuous integration and deployment processes.
